Are You the Bottleneck of Your Business?

[Headline Option #2]

How Business Owners Grow Beyond $2M to $5M

Many self-made business owners feel the business will crumble if they don't manage everything personally. How about you? Do you feel that no one can do as good a job as you? Are you carrying the company's weight on your shoulders by working 60, 70, and maybe 80 hours every week to keep everything moving? Many owners do, but that kind of thinking is a trap.

Here's what eventually happens. Sales and revenue plateau between $2 and $5 million. You work harder than ever, but you and your business only tread water, barely profiting.

Look at it this way...

What if a giant tree fell over in front of your business, cutting off the only access in or out, ripping out the electrical lines, water line, and internet in one big crash?

What would you do?

You would call a tree surgeon, the electric company, the water company, the internet provider, and someone to fix the road.

Why not do it yourself?

These people have unique capabilities, tools, training, and systems to manage and correct these problems quickly and professionally.

So, why is it any different inside your business?

If you're managing every department and decision instead of letting qualified people handle them, you become a bottleneck to growth. You are an expert in your industry or trade but not in all the other facets of the business. If your business growth trajectory is flat or nosing down... that's the tree falling.
